Talisker Provides Ore Sorter Facility Construction Update for the Bralorne Gold Project

November 18, 2026

TORONTO, Nov. 18, 2026 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) – Talisker Resources Ltd. (“Talisker” or the “Company”) (TSX: TSK, OTCQX: TSKFF) is pleased to provide an update on the continued advancement of its ore sorter facility (“Sorting Facility”) at the Company’s 100% owned Bralorne Gold Project (“Bralorne”).

Construction and engineering activities have continued to advance according to plan, with several major project milestones already completed and a number of critical work programs now entering the execution phase.

Key Highlights:

- Initial operation of the Sorting Facility is targeted for Q2 2027, with full commissioning expected in July-August 2027.
- Electrical infrastructure is completed and targeted for commissioning by the end of November 2026, providing power for the future operation of the Sorting Facility.
- Phase 1 earthworks associated with the electrical infrastructure required to support the Sorting Facility were successfully completed in September.
- Phase 2 earthworks and concrete foundation construction is planned to commence late November 2026, following removal of legacy infrastructure.
- Factory Acceptance Testing (FAT) of the TOMRA XRT Sorter is scheduled for early December 2026, with the ore sorter expected to arrive in Canada in January 2027.
- Major long-lead equipment procurement is substantially complete, with the jaw crusher, cone crusher, vibrating screen plant received in Bralorne in October, conveyors, compressors, and buildings being delivered in phases starting December 2026.
- Construction and mechanical installation activities are planned throughout Q1 2027, supported by completion of detailed engineering and issuance of the remaining construction tender packages in December 2026.

Terry Harbort, President and CEO, stated,

“We are very pleased with the progress being made on the Sorting Facility.

“With key infrastructure completed, major equipment secured, and construction activities continuing to ramp up, the project remains on schedule for operational readiness in Q2 2027.

“This Sorting Facility represents an important milestone for Bralorne and will play a significant role in improving operational efficiency and supporting the Company’s long-term growth objectives.”
