Crypto prices recovering strongly

Bitcoin and fellow crypto currencies and tokens have staged a strong recovery in the last week, with some tripling in value from their lows.

The Bitcoin Cash (BCH) ‘hard fork’ was said to be the reason for the plunging values across the board, and maybe that has now been worked through the market?

The Bitcoin Cash (BCH) ‘hard fork’ was said to be the reason for the plunging values across the board, and maybe that has now been worked through the market? There has been no other credible reason given why the whole market fell as it did, so the hard fork remains the main suspect.

What investors now need to know is if the current strength is a dead cat bounce before a next leg down, or a genuine market rally?   We won’t know this for a month or two, so will have to watch the market and news closely for signs.
