

Diggers and Dealers 2017 conference attendee numbers to be “highest in years”

Diggers and Dealers 2017, the annual mining conference based in Kalgoorlie, Western Australia, has reported their highest delegate numbers for several years, with 2,100 now registered for the event, which commences this coming Monday 7th August.

The increased numbers indicate a healthy rise in interest in the Australian mining scene, with just over one third of delegates being industry service providers.

Diggers and Dealers 2017, the annual mining conference based in Kalgoorlie, Western Australia, has reported their highest delegate numbers for several years, with 2,100 now registered for the event, which commences this coming Monday 7th August.

the increased number indicate a healthy rise in interest in the Australian mining scene, with just over one third of delegates being industry service providers.

I am attending and will report from the show each day.

Tomorrow, Saturday, I am travelling from Perth to Kalgoorlie on the "Prospector" train, a journey of some 7 hours duration through the outback. The train leaves Perth at 07.10 am, so an early start is required!