Comment

This financing comes as no surprise, as the Fosterville South share price has tripled recently, and no sensible management team would miss the opportunity to add to the treasury whilst the stock is riding a wave of positive investor sentiment.

With the gold price rising and Fosterville having such prospective ground at Golden Mountain, adding a second drill rig to accelerate the drill program makes sense, and will enable more results to be announced quicker. If these are good or better, that will maintain the forward momentum in the Company highlights:

Fosterville South Exploration (TSX.V: FSX) has two large, 100% owned, high-grade epizonal gold projects and one large group of tenement applications in the state of Victoria, Australia, including a 600 sq. km property immediately to the south of and within the same geological framework that hosts Kirkland Lake Gold's Fosterville tenements.

All three of Fosterville South's properties (Lauriston, Providence and Golden Mountain) have had historical gold production from hard rock sources despite limited modern exploration and drilling. This premier land package was assembled over a multi-year period by one of Fosterville South's founders and Chief Operating Officer, Rex Motton
