

Lawrence Williams (Lawrie on Gold) taken ill

Lawrence Williams, the highly respected and popular principal of “Lawrie on Gold” has sadly suffered a stroke, and is currently recovering in hospital.

We all wish Lawrie a full and speedy recovery, and hope to see you back on your feet soon.

Lawrence Williams is highly liked and respected amongst the London Precious metal investment community, and a person I like to converse with whenever I have the chance.

A former editor of Mineweb, he now runs his Lawrieongold website.

I met him a couple of weeks ago on Moorgate, and he said he had felt unwell but was recovering.

We can only hope that Lawrie makes a full recovery as quickly as possible.