

Minera Alamos CEO Ramshaw in new presentation

Minera Alamos (TSX.V: MAI)

CEO Doug Ramshaw recently participated in the Mines and Money “pitched battle”, where he succinctly presented the investment case for Minera Alamos in just three minutes, in a ‘Dragons Den’ type scenario.

The key takeaway is the speed of progress so far, and the projected growth towards a 200,000 Oz Au PA producer.

Minera Alamos (TSX.V: MAI)

CEO Doug Ramshaw recently participated in the Mines and Money "pitched battle", where he succinctly presented the investment case for Minera Alamos in just three minutes, in a 'Dragons Den' type scenario.

The key takeaway is the speed of progress so far, and the projected growth towards a 200,000 Oz Au PA producer, and this has been achieved on a very modest budget.

Minera are a fine example of a mining company working for their shareholders by lowering costs, and their own salaries! to the lowest levels possible, in order to create shareholder value.

Looking at the slide deck a fourth project is listed, looking as though the next mine has already been selected.

With production already started at and a prudent slow walk up in stages through to mid 2022, Minera look to be in a good place, as Doug succinctly highlights in his allotted three minute pitch, which is well worth listening to in my opinion.
