City Investors Circle Mining Review 28th July 2024

Capricorn Metals cheered the market with an upbeat exploration report in an otherwise quiet week for exploration results.

Barton Gold's Tunkilla Scoping Study failed to excite the market, whereas BMP Minerals drill news at least pushed the share price up a little.

Victoria Gold looks to be teetering on the edge of the abyss, as the news following their heap leach pad diaster continues to get worse.

The Yukon government have just issued a news release updating on the situation at the disaster site, where some deliterious elements seem to have contaminated some water, though there are no signs of fish or animal deaths as a result yet.

To make matters worse, some nearby wild fires are causing access problems to the Eagle mine.

I still predict this company will go into administration soon, I cannot see any way back for them and I'm surprised it's still trading, and even more surprised anyone is still buying the shares.
