

Neometals has lodged three US patent applications for spent lithium battery recycling

Neometals Ltd {ASX: NMT} announced that it has lodged three US provisional patent applications associated with its technology to recover high-value materials from spent lithium batteries. The scoping studies completed to date confirm that the technology can economically recover high-value cobalt (99.2% recovery), at potentially lowest quartile operating cost.

Neometals lodges three us provisional patent applications for recycling spent lithium batteries.

Neometals Ltd {ASX: NMT} announced that it has lodged three US provisional patent applications associated with its technology to recover high-value materials from spent lithium batteries. The scoping studies completed to date confirm that the technology can economically recover high-value cobalt (99.2% recovery), at potentially lowest quartile operating cost.

To read the article in full, please click HERE