Commenting on key outcomes for the Quarter, CEO, Alex Passmore said:

"Our third full quarter of production continued to deliver strong cash generation, providing the financial foundation to advance our growth across the Garden Gully Gold Project.

"Recent drilling delivered strong results with the updated Mineral Resource Estimate increasing estimated resource ounces by 47% after mining depletion.

"This resource growth has allowed us to expand operations to commence mining Cloudkicker, our second pit, which is expected to add ounces to our production profile, enhance operational flexibility and underpin a strong production performance in 2027.

"Importantly, strong operating cash flows are allowing us to progress multiple development opportunities simultaneously, including: Cloudkicker, the Crown Prince Underground study, and the Lydia open pit plan.

"We remain on track to complete the Crown Prince Underground study in September 2026."
