PDAC 2025 Day 2

It was an exceptionally busy day as the market professionals joined the show as usual on a Monday.

Dynasty Gold and Endurence Gold caught the eye, both early stage exploration projects.

Both companies have reported some spectacular drill results but highlight the problems of the junior mining sector in that money is hard to raise,a nd without money little drilling is done, and the projects crawl forward.

This causes investors to lose interest and switch focus to ther stocks that might be generating some newsflow.

I am focusing on companies that are able to fund and generate newsflow now, they are able t focus investor attention which translates into buying of the shares and improved liquidity.

I made the fatal mistake of allowing someone that I know that lives in Tororнto to draw me out of the show for a coffee and chat, which took a couple of hours.

They then returned with me to the conference and their interest was different to mine, so I ended up wasting time in the Trade Show rather than in the Investors Exchange where the companies are.

That effectively wasted an afternoon, and is a mistake I wont repeat again.

The weather continues to be cold with a biting wind, around minus 15 with the wind chill.
