

Russian central bank considers a gold backed crypto coin

Bitcoin / Crypto

The Russian central bank is considering a gold backed crypto currency to facilitate international settlements.

Russia remains opposed to crypto coins replacing national fiat currencies though.

Bitcoin / Crypto

The Russian central bank is considering a gold backed crypto currency to facilitate international settlements.

Russia remains opposed to crypto coins replacing national fiat currencies though.

.

Elvira Nabiullina, the head of the Bank of Russia, revealed that the bank may be interested in creating a gold-pegged crypto for conducting mutual settlements with global jurisdictions.

However, Nabiullina claimed that she believes that it is more important to develop international settlements using national currencies.