Calidus Resources Warrawoona mine

Comment.

I have to admit this news floored me.

Calidus have had issues, but the recent refinancing and hedge delay looked to have given them a clear path to profitability in the short term, and they had around A$9 million in treasury.

I expect a total loss of my investment here, a first for me.

It's unbelievable that after executing the financing and construction perfectly, a miner producing gold at record prices has gone under.

I am removing them from our watchlist, and will advise if any positive news is released, but I expect the creditors to empty the trough and not leave anything for the shareholders.
