

Gold Road to Benefit from Northern Star Acquisition of De Grey Mining

Gold Road Resources (ASX: GOR)

Northern Star has just announced the acquisition of De Grey Mining for A$5 billion, representing a premium of 36% to Friday's closing price.

Gold Road hold a 20% stake in De Grey Mining.

Comment

This news looks very positive for Gold Road, as a 20% owner of De Grey Mining.

Their stake has just risen by 36%, to around A$1 billion.

This may well allow Gold Road to go on the acquisition trail themselves with this war chest, or will they retain their take in the new company?

Either way I intend to retain my holding.

Gold Road to Benefit from Northern Star Acquisition of De Grey Mining

Gold Road Resources (ASX: GOR) Northern Star has just announced the acquisition of De Grey Mining for A$5 billion, representing a premium of 36% to Friday's closing price.

Gold Road hold a 20% stake in De Grey Mining.

It will be interesting to see what Gold Road do with their stake in De Grey when it converts to shares in Northern Star, will it sell? And if so, with 20% of A$5 billion, (A$1 billion), what will they do with the funds?

This looks very positive for Gold Road in my opinion.

We await further developments and announcements with interest.

Mining Review 12th May 2024

Mining Review 12th May 2024

Gold Road Resources are diluting their position in De Grey Mining by not fully participating in the De Grey A$600 million financing.

Thesis Gold and West Red Lake reported good news. Red Pine reported very serious news

City Investors Circle Mining Review 12th May 2024

It was a bumper week for both precious and industrial metals, with only Lithium, iron ore, and thermal coal in negative territory.

Lithium was down on weak demand as some auto makers look to cut production of EVs due to lack of consumer demand. The Chinese are producing millions of EVs and the USA and the EU are looking to employ protectionist measures to prevent the Chinese selling into their markets due to the lower production costs in China.

That of course means the Chinese will simply sell their cheaper vehicles into less developed markets, mainly in Asia and possibly S. America.

Turning to company news, it was a quiet week on the drilling front, but we still had a few nuggets from our watchlist companies.

But firstly, I should mention the growing scandal at Red Pine Exploration (TSX.V: RPX). The stock took a 60% hit on the 1st May when they withdrew all previous assay results from their Wawa Project, due to “inconsistencies” with them, see here.

The company then appointed an independent lab, WSP Global, to verify the data, and the stock bounced 50% on this news. I considered a quick punt thinking that once assays were independantly verified, the stock would regain most of its loss and I could make a quick turn and keep the profit as free shares.

I didn't do that though, as I just didn't feel that confident that things would work out, and that turned out to be a good decision!

The company has now announced “based on the findings made to date, Red Pine believes that the reporting inconsistencies disclosed in the Prior Press Releases resulted from the unauthorized manipulation of certain assay results received from Activation Laboratories Ltd. (“Actlabs”) by the Company’s former Chief Executive Officer (the “Former CEO”).” See here.

The stock fell around 30% in response, and is back at 8.5 cents again.

Wow! Not exactly Bre-X, but the same thing on a smaller scale! They wouldn't make such a public statement unless they were sure for fear of facing a heavy defamation lawsuit.

Red Pine was a hot stock for a while. They came to a London conference, and I booked to meet them, with a view to investing. At the last minute they cancelled my meeting, with no reason given. Feeling a bit miffed at the unprofessional manner they handled it, I never invested.

I am now very grateful to the person that cancelled my meeting without having the courtesy to give me a reason! When management act like that, I never invest!

Gold Road Resources' position in De Grey Mining is being diluted due to that company's A$600 million financing. Despite Gold Road's participation, it will result in a fall in their stake to just over 17%.

Thesis Gold announced a measured and indicated resource of 4 million ounces of gold, and West Red Lake Gold Mines reported more high-grade-gold intercepts around their Madsen Mine.

Gold Road Lowers De Grey Mining percentage Stake

Gold Road Resources (ASX: GOR) has announced its intention to participate in the De Grey Mining A$600 million financing announced recently.

But, It will participate for only A$50.8, million, which will dilute its percentage holding by around 2.9% to just over 17%.

Although Gold Road boasts a treasury of some A$146 million, it would have needed to invest A$119 million to maintain its 19.9% stake in De Grey.

This suggests they might possibly have another investment in mind, as they recently failed to purchase a 40% stake in the Greenstone Gold Mine in Canada, and may already have a plan B.

At the current price of Gold, the De Grey Hemi mine will repaid in around two years.

Hemi, once built, will be in the top 5 largest Australian gold mines.
