Mining Review 2nd August 2026

The big news this week was the completion of two significant transactions.

The business combination of Equinox Gold and Orla Mining, and the acquisition of G2 Goldfields by G Mining Ventures.

Silver Storm Mining announced the shipment of first ore from their recently reopened La Parilla mine in Mexico.

Gold and silver were relatively flat, gyrating around news releases of the American war on Iran. investors have to hold their nerve as share prices go up and down like a rollercoaster.

It has to be remembered that we are in the summer doldrums, which is usually weak for the price of gold, and stocks in general.

++++++

It was another turbulent week in the markets, particularly mining stocks and commodities, as Trump's war on Iran swayed to and fro from total annihilation of the population to peace talks, on a daily basis.

It's nigh on impossible to time an entry at the moment so I just take a long term view and ignore the noise.

I traded a little with my Pacgold sale funds, adding to my position in Equinox Gold as it simply looks too cheap in my opinion. I am taking a long term view based on a premier management team that has been successful in creating shareholder value over a number of companies.

Orla Mining and Equinox Gold fell on news of a blockade at Orla's Camino Rojo mine in Mexico. The blockade has now been lifted and work resumed.

The American war on Iran continues to create volatility in the market.

City Investors Circle

City Investors Circle Mining Review 7th June 2026

Orla Mining and Equinox Gold fell on news of a blockade at Orla's Camino Rojo mine in Mexico. The blockade has now been lifted and work resumed.

This seems to be the result of a long running dispute between Orla and a union at the mine, which has also involved a court case over representation at the mine between two unions.

One hopes the issue will be resolved quickly as it's now damaging both companies share prices before the business combination.

Pacgold has announced it is to demerge its Queensland assets, including the prospective Alice River gold project, into a new company, Manda.

The company will then focus on the White Dam gold project, where small scale production of around 500 – 600 ounces per month has started, and this will fund exploration to try and extend the resource and life of mine.

Pacgold shareholders will benefit from an in-specie distribution of 1 for 6 shares in Manda.

It would appear however that this benefit is reserved for Australia and New Zealand based shareholders, but not those in the rest of the world. I have asked the company to confirm this, but have not received a reply so far, which augurs badly, in my opinion.

I am going to sell my holding if UK shareholders are excluded from the in-specie distribution on the principle that we are being disadvantaged to the benefit of local shareholders.

Surely ALL shareholders should be treated equally?

The American war on Iran continues to create volatility in the market, with gold moving further downwards during the constant positive and negative announcements being made by Trump and Iran.

Every sign of peace results in a higher gold price and oil falls, then another announcement reverses everything. This is a real nonsense, a US President should not be behaving like this in my opinion.

Where is the UN?
