City Investors Circle Watchlist Changes

After recent meetings with management of a variety of companies, we are making a few adjustments to our tier 3 and 4 watchlists.

Out go a few companies that are producing little in progress and newsflow, and in come a few closer to production and more active, with expectations of strong newsflow.

City Investors Circle Watchlist Changes

After recent meetings with management of a variety of companies, we are making a few adjustments to our tier 3 and 4 watchlists.

Out go a few companies that are producing little in progress and newsflow, and in come a few closer to production and more active, with expectations of strong newsflow.

I like the determination of Australian exploration and development companies to get into early stage production, and I am adding two companies that are planning to initiate production soon, New Murchison Gold, and Challenger Gold.

Challenger Gold are based in Argentina, a country that is looking favourable for mining now that President Milei is making the country investable with his business focused policies to attract foreign investment.

Early stage production via toll milling is about to commence, with a large Argentinian shareholder owning the mill that will process the ore.

The Watchlist changes are listed below.

We are adding the following companies to our tier 3 watchlist

New Murchison Gold – Modest capex to bring into production in Murchison, WA.

Challenger Gold – Near term production via toll milling

We are adding the following companies to our tier 4 watchlist

1911 Gold Corporation – Fully permitted mill that has been run recently

Aldebaran Resources – One of the largest undeveloped copper deposits in the world

Scorpio Gold – Full funded for exploration in a prolific gold belt in Nevada

We are deleting the following companies from our tier 3 watchlist

Eloro Resources – Bolivian politics have become murky with Evo Morales once again involved.

Japan Gold – Seemingly good projects with premium partners, but little progress

Rumble Resources – Little progress

Westhaven Gold – Perennial explorer, raise and drill, very slow progress.

We are deleting the following companies from our tier 4 watchlist

BMG Resources

Siren Gold

The reason is the same for all the #secompanies, not making the progress I had hoped for when they were added to the watchlist. Financing at the lower end is tough of course.
